

DO UNTO OTHERS--

Paying your bills promptly is one of the best ways to follow the Golden Rule.

First---in fairness to the merchant or professional man who has invested cash and time in the merchandise or service you have received, you should reciprocate the favor of credit by taking care of your obligations in reasonable time.

Your merchant or professional man does not require security. He demands no interest--yet he is actually loaning you cash.

Second--in fairness to your own good name and reputation, your bills should be paid on time.

You are granted credit according to your past record. Your character is the basis for confidence in your ability to pay.

Do your part. Pay your bills promptly. If you can't pay all at once, pay half or whatever you can and see to it that your creditor knows you are playing the game square.

That's one way we can all add to the good name of Red Deer.

THE ELECTIONS

On Monday next the citizens will have a choice of candidates to select from.

Four candidates for Aldermen were nominated for all three vacancies, namely, the retiring Aldermen, F. W.
Guthrie and J. R. McCune, and new candidates, J. G. Fulton and John Balle. They are all good men and it is hard to say who will be elected.

For School Board there will also be a contest, W. E. Payne and R. L.
Gatz, the retiring trustees, being renominated, and C. F. Carswell was also nominated by those citizens who are asking for a change.

Just a word with regard to C. F.
Carswell. One citizen on Monday said to the writer: "Why he is only a kid, and citizens look upon him as a school boy. He will be beaten to a frazzle by the old members of the Board."

Well, he is old enough to be a Veteran of the Great War, which closed six years ago, and he bears honorable scars of that great struggle. He is old enough to risk his life a hundred times for his fellow citizens.
He is old enough to represent us on the School Board.

He is the first Alberta born boy to contest for a seat either on the Council or School Board of the city of Red Deer.

A CANADIAN AMBASSADOR AT WASHINGTON

The Honourable Mr. Graham in a recent speech announced that Canada will soon have an ambassador of her own at Washington. This is a step which has often been discussed, and some time ago it was made public that the British Government quite approved of the new arrangement. On the whole it seems like a sensible and businesslike thing that Canada should have her own ambassador to the United States. Relations between our selves and the States must always be close, whether they are friendly or unfriendly. Points of contact must be many. Causes of possible friction are always in existence. A Canadian ambassador can promptly look after Canada's interests, and our institute knowledge that the British ambassador can do, however well instructed and capable the latter may be.

Moreover, with a Canadian ambassador representing Canada the risk of friction between Great Britain and Canada is less than under the present arrangement. There are always mischief-makers ready to suggest, whenever Canada does not get things her own way, that the British ambassador has failed to protect our interests properly. With a Canadian ambassador at Washington this cannot possibly be said. Our own policies will be supported by our own representative, whose success or failure will be ours and no one else's. The result, we will be able to obtain experience of what it really means to be a nation. Latterly we have been claiming the rights of nationhood with a comfortable assumption that we shall not have to bear its responsibilities.
The new arrangements may correct our ideas in this respect, and if it does so, that will be a certain thing.

There is, it is true, a certain amount of risk that the appointment of the ambassador may be made up of by those who aim at separating Canada from the Empire. They may try to develop a markedly divergent policy from that pursued by the British ambassador. That a risk which must be faced, and on which we seems less than the risk now being run of giving cause for complaint because of Canada's interests not being represented with full force. The sooner the Canadian ambassador is appointed, the better it will be, provided that the choice of such ambassador is a wise one.

CANADA AND THE NEW BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Mr. Baldwin, the British Prime Minister, has just been in announcing that the question of the part to be taken by the overseas Dominions in the foreign policy of the Empire, is to be made the subject of free discussion between the various governments of the Empire. This is extremely wise, for the present position is most unsatisfactory, and might easily become dangerous. As Mr. Meighen pointed out in his speech at Calgary not long ago, there is a section of the Canadian press which seems to be obsessed with the idea that the British Government has some dark plot in its mind for reducing the newly gained status of Canadian nationhood to the old one of colonial dependency. There is no real ground for any such suspicion, but it certainly exists, and the sooner it is definitely put an end to the better for all concerned. This touchiness on the part of some of our press reflects a similar feeling on the part of a quite considerable number of Canadians some of whom are amongst our most respectable public men. It is a quite understandable feeling. The Canadian performance in the war was such as to make us feel that we had fairly won the right to be treated as equals by Great Britain in respect of matters of imperial importance. Our numbers are still small. That being so, many of our leading men are impatient to see the new status being given practical effect in the conduct of the foreign policy of the Empire. It was somewhat unfortunate that Canada's Prime Minister for the last three years, and Great Britain's Foreign Minister for the greater part of the time since the war ended, have not been men in the least likely to work for the closer together in important matters. Mr. Mackenzie King is not at heart an imperialist. He is an autonomist. Lord Curzon seems constitutionally incapable of getting rid of a somewhat patronizing, not to say dictatorial, attitude towards those with whom he has to deal. The result has been the creation of friction and misunderstanding, which Mr. Baldwin is now anxious to put an end to.

The new British Foreign Minister, Mr.
Chamberlain, is a man of courteous and conciliatory temper. The new Colonial Secretary, Mr. Amery, is less well known, but is thought to be a man of tact. Neither of these men are likely to raise difficulties about the participation of the Dominions in the foreign policy of the Empire on a full and equal basis. It is suggested that an entirely new Dominion department may be created, which Mr. Baldwin himself may take charge of. This would seem to be a wise idea, and it is to be hoped it will be put into practice. It is also to be most earnestly hoped that someone on the Canadian side will bring home with force to the eager autonomists among us that before we can claim a voice in Empire affairs we will be put into
hoped that someone on the Canadian
side will bring home with
us that before we can claim a voice in
practice.

At present we have neither army nor navy nor air service, and are entirely dependent on the British navy and American power for the defence of our great dominion. No questioning will get rid of that fact.
Above all things it is highly desirable that the method and the manner of the discussion should be marked by moderation and an endeavor to arrive at both sides of the question. A few careless, hasty, but unimportant phrases used publicly at the present time may quite easily set fire to an agitation in Canada for actual separation from the Empire. In the opinion of by far the majority of patriotic Canadians, that would be a disaster. If it is to be avoided, public men in general had better keep a sharp curb over their tempers and their tongues.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE'S RECRUITING CHARGES

A mild storm has been caused in Western Canada by the speech made some time ago by Sir Arthur Currie, formerly of McGill University and Principal of the Canadian Corps in the war. In that speech Sir Arthur Currie declared that something like 100,000 men had been enlisted in the overseas who were unfit for service and merely a useless expense to the country, and he also commented severely on the Ross ride and the Olivier equipment. The members of Parliament are now declaring that there must be an enquiry into the accuracy of Sir Arthur's statements.

There does not seem to be anything whatever to be gained by such enquiry. Those of us who saw and close quarters the recruiting of the Canadian overseas battalions, know perfectly well that those responsible for such recruiting were in some cases actuated more by the desire to fill the ranks quickly with men of any kind rather than with men of any kind other than perfectly fit men. The Olivier equipment was never other than a useless absurdity, and the Ross rifle was rightly discarded as soon as it possibly could be in favour of the British Lee-Enfield. Sir Arthur's speech probably is in a better position than almost any other man to know what he is talking about in these matters, and is not in the least likely to have spoken without good reason.

When it is said that an enquiry now would be of no use, and would only waste public time and money, it would not be likely to give us any real guidance for a future occasion, and would merely lead to much unnecessary recrimination and abuse. On the whole, the Canadian battalions in the late war were raised with surprising quickness, and the quality of the men enlisted was good. That the wastage was not even greater in view of the exceedingly amateur character of our organization is a matter for some surprise. We think we shall be well advised to let it go at that, and not squabble uselessly over what is now past.

(GREAT BRITAIN AND EGYPT)

The murder of Sir Leo Stack, the British "sirdar" or "commander-in-chief" in the Sudan, by Egyptian assassins, has raised an acute crisis between Great Britain and Egypt.
The immediate apology offered by the Egyptian Prime Minister, as well as the Egyptian King, has rightly been treated as quite inadequate by the British Government. If the Egyptian Government had not encouraged a bitter anti-British agitation, this murder would not have taken place. If the Egyptian Government is not made to pay heavily and directly for this murder, others will almost certainly follow it. No mere verbal apologies or remonstrances will put an end to that sort of thing. If any old-fashioned power had been ruling Egypt, the answer to this crime would have been the prompt execution of some hundreds of leading Egyptians and the possible handing over of the Egyptian capital to the troops of the governing power for looting and des-poilment. It is the duty of the British Government to see that the rest of the world is not misled by the murder of Sir Leo Stack, and that at least thoroughly understood by people like the Egyptians, who are one of the most despicable and unattractive races in the world. The British Government will, of course, do nothing of the sort, but it is foolish to try to considerable number of the Egyptian leaders and hold them as hostages for the future good behaviour of the rest of their countrymen. It would be an excellent thing for Egypt. The Indian Mutiny was quelled by methods of such sternness as to impress themselves for a generation on the people of India, and the peace which has resulted has been of untold blessing to that country. The lesson seems unfortunately to be in course of being forgotten. The late Mark Twain's famous remark was never so appropriate as to the Egyptians of the present day. "If," he said, "you take a miserable, half-starved dog and feed it and make it happy and comfortable, it won't turn and bite you. That's the difference between a man and a dog."

THE END OF THE RUSSIAN TREATIES

The new British Government, as was to be expected, has denounced the Treaties which the Labour Government made with Soviet Russia. It has also declared its belief in the authenticity of the famous Livoniev letter, whose publication on the eve of the late general election did so much to ruin the Labour party's chances of success. It is quite possible that this may lead to the breaking off of all relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, and if so, very few intelligent people can regret the fact for a moment. It is as foolish to try to maintain friendly relations with the Soviet Government as it is to do so in private life with a homicidal maniac.
Only the wilful blindness of the Labour Party's theorists, and the discussion of the extremists, induced the late British Government to make the attempt. In this respect the government of the United States has shown considerably more wisdom than the late British Government or that of Mr.
Lloyd George. Whether the action of the British Government will help to hasten the downfall of the Soviet Government, only time will determine.

NO NEED FOR ANY ALARM IN EGYPT; SEVERAL ARRESTS

One British, Two Syrians and Many Egyptian Soldiers Killed in Uprising
at Khartoum

Calcutta, November 29.—It is understood here that the Egyptian troops of the Sudan are giving no trouble to the British, and that the mutiny at Khartoum is in its last stages. In the Sudan and two Syrian physicians were killed and a number of British soldiers were wounded. Among them were the British soldiers who were killed at Khartoum. The British troops fired upon them. The remainder of the Sudanese battalion sided with the British in overpowering the mutineers.

NO NEED FOR ALARM

London, November 29.—The news
from Egypt yesterday was reassuring, but it is not known just what the exact state of affairs is as the telegraph lines are cut.

The students' committee yesterday published a manifesto declaring its opposition to the present Egyptian government, and calling the attention of all classes of the people to a number of abuses which are being committed. It is a manifesto which forms a new party, "which will recognize the acts of the aggressors."

The students urge an entire renewal of the Egyptian government. They themselves have decided to remain on strike.

Engaged in Plots

Those arrested appeared to be mainly men connected with the organization of Former Premier Zaki Khalil, and it is reported some of them were engaged in plots against the lives of Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, the high commissioner, and others. It is said the Egyptian government itself now is responsible for the business of interfering persons of dangerous element who include some of the student leaders. The student activities, which appeared to have ceased upon Zaki's advice to refrain from agitation, have broken out afresh and seem likely to form the center for attracting Nationalist efforts throughout the whole country against the British government's de-every person were to pay every cent on his or her obligations, a great many people would be at once relieved from financial worry.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION

Last week the Red Deer Advocate had the following on the Egyptian question:

"The tragic trouble in Egypt comes unfortunately after the British election. It was a very foolish move probably have referred the main political claims of the British note to the League of Nations and would have contented itself with apology and reparation, and guarantees for future conduct. The present British policy, and Britain's claim to act for foreign interests in Egypt without asking the consent of the Egyptian government, has certainly seriously limited their action—these foreigners would sooner act under the League of Nations than all probability. The world has moved a long way since the beginning of the war, and the old-fashioned, shirt-sleeve diplomacy is out of date."

This is very like the Advocate. But we quote the opinion of Lloyd George as an antidote. It is well worth reading:

"Whatever opinion may be formed of the developments in Egypt, they certainly ought not to have taken any one by surprise. The murder of the sirdar in clear daylight in the streets of Cairo and the easy escape of the assassins is the culmination of a series of incidents which constitute a challenge to the British Empire to protect its subjects against outrage, when they are engaged in discharging a duty at its call and on its behalf."

Honor Demands Protection

There are those who say we ought not to be there at all and that Egypt ought to be an entirely Egyptian as British British. The late Labour ministry did not take that view of our responsibilities in Egypt, nor did the Liberal government of 1905-1914.

But surely, so long as we are responsible for Egypt, we are bound to protect it. We should protect it to the utmost of our power. The murder of Sir Leo Stack, with the murder of the sirdar, is a crime characterized by its utterances, in a man's speech he delivered at the Mansion House during his visit to Europe in 1910.

His words are so relevant to the present situation that I can do no better than quote them:

"It was with this primary object of establishing order that you went into Egypt 28 years ago, and chief and simple justification for your presence in Egypt was the absolute necessity of order being established from without, coupled with your ability and willingness to establish it. Now you have the right to be in Egypt, or you have not; either it is or it is not your duty to establish and keep order, if you feel that you have not the right to be in Egypt, if you do not wish to establish and keep order there, why then by all means get out of Egypt.
As I hope, you feel that your duty is to establish and keep order, you to your own great traditions alike bid you to stay, then make fact and name true and show of the rest of the world meet, in every deed, the responsibility which is yours."

Thing, Not Form, Vital

"It is the thing, not the form, which is vital; if the present form of government in Egypt, established by you in the hope that they would help the Egyptians to establish order, is to provoke and permit disorder, then it is for you to alter the forms, for, if you stay in Egypt, it is your first duty to keep order and, above all things, also to punish murder and to bring to justice all who directly or indirectly incite others to commit murder or condone crime when it is committed."

Don't Great Harm
Ramsey MacDonald, former prime minister, indicated what was to be the policy of the Labour opposition in parliament on the Egyptian affair. He declared the manner in which the British government had handled the crisis had done Great Britain great harm in the eyes of the world.
It was a very foolish move concerned with any of the political

REWARD

All day I did the little things,
The little things that I did not show, I brought the kindling for the fire,
I set the candles in a row,
I filled a bowl with marigolds,
The shallow bowl you love the best,
And make the house a pleasant place Where weariness might take its rest.

The shadows sped on. My eager feet Could not keep pace with my desires.
So much to do, so little time!
I would not let my body tire.
Yet when the coming of the night Blotted the garden from my sight,
And on the marrow-gravelled walks Between the gaudy flower-steps, I heard your step, I was not through With services I meant for you!

You came into the quiet room That glowed enchanted with the bloom
Of yellow flame. I saw your face Illumined by the fire-lit space.
Slowly grow still and comforted.
"It's good to be at home," you said.
—Home Companion.

BETTER ALONE

Pat and Mike went for a walk. Pat, who was the shorter of the two, could not keep up with Mike's long strides, and after a while began to get very tired and out of breath.

"Sure, Mike," he exclaimed, "do ye always wait so long as this?"

"Yes," replied Mike, "and faster than this when I'm by myself."

"Indeed!" exclaimed Pat. "Sure, and I wouldn't like to be walking with ye while ye're by yourself, Mike."

NO NEED FOR ANY ALARM IN EGYPT; SEVERAL ARRESTS

One British, Two Syrians and Many
Egyptian Soldiers Killed in Uprising
at Khartoum

Calcutta, November 29.—It is understood here that the Egyptian troops
of the Sudan are giving no trouble to
the British, and that the mutiny at Khartoum
is in its last stages. In the Sudan
and two Syrian physicians were killed
and a number of British soldiers were
wounded. Among them were the British soldiers who were killed at Khartoum. The British troops fired upon them. The remainder of the Sudanese battalion sided
with the British in overpowering the
mutineers.

London, November 29.—The news
from Egypt yesterday was reassuring,
but it is not known just what the
graph lines are cut.

opposition to the present Egyptian
of all classes of the people to a number of abuses which are being
forms a new party, "which will recognize the acts of the aggressors."

The students urge an entire
renewal of the Egyptian government. They themselves have decided to remain on strike.

mainly men connected with the organization of Former Premier Zaki Khalil, and it is reported some of them were engaged in plots against
the lives of Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, the high commissioner, and others. It is said the Egyptian gov-
the business of interfering persons of
activities, which appeared to have
ceased upon Zaki's advice to re-
center for attracting Nationalist
efforts throughout the whole country
against the British government's de-

CHANGING SEED GRAIN

(Experimental Farms Note)

A common question asked by farmers is, "Does it pay to change seed?" The inference here is that where the same seed has been used on the same farm for a few years, it may deteriorate in its ability to produce a profitable crop. It is also a common belief that one operating a farm characterized by relatively light soil should obtain his seed frequently, from a crop which is produced on soil of a heavier character and vice versa. Some authorities have scoffed at the idea that a change of seed is ever necessary. They argue that seed grown year after year in a district must of necessity become acclimatized and better adapted to the soil conditions of that district. It is safe to say that many farmers have followed this advice to their financial loss. Investigation and observation have revealed the fact that it is not possible to lay down any definite rule as to when seed should be changed. It is obvious that certain circumstances may arise to make the change of seed appear imperative, even to the casual observer. For instance, a crop may be so badly damaged through lack of moisture or by some condition which has forced premature ripening, as to cause the resulting grain to be very light and poor. Under such circumstances, it would, of course, be folly to think of using this grain for seed. This, however, is an extreme case. The problem to determine is whether, under normal circumstances, one may expect a larger crop from the use of seed grown elsewhere than on the farm on which it is intended to be used. Without going into detail, one may safely follow the rule to change seed only when seed may be obtained which possesses a higher degree of development and vigor than the home-grown. This is assuming that the home-grown seed belongs to a suitable variety for the district and is free from noxious impurities. If these latter provisions are not complied with, the seed, of course, should not be used under any circumstances. Farmers who contemplate changing their seed and whose seed is reasonably good, at present would be well advised to procure some first class registered seed through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association at Ottawa and test this in comparison with their own. This is a relatively inexpensive practice which might well be adopted periodically by every farmer and with all classes of crop.

THERE IS NO DEATH

There is no death! The stars go down to rise upon some faire shore; And bright in heaven's jeweled crown they shine for evermore.

There is no death! The dust we tread shall change beneath the summer showers To golden grain or mellowed fruit or rainbow-brighted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize and feed the hungry moss they bear. The forest leaves drink daily life from out the vivacious air.

There is no death! The leaves may fall and flowers may fade and pass away; They only wait through wintry hours the coming of the May.

There is no death! An angel form walks o'er the earth in silent tread; He hears our best loved things away and then we call them dead.

He leaves our hearts all desolate, he plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers; Transplanted into bliss, they now adorn immortal bowers.

The birdlike voice, whose joyous tones made glad these scenes of sin and strife, Sings now an everlasting song around the tree of life.

Where'er he sees a smile too bright or heart too pure for talent and wit, He hears it to that world of light to dwell in paradise.

Born unto that undying life they leave us to come again; With joy we welcome them the same—except their sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen, the dear immortal spirits tread; For all the boundless universe is life—there are no dead.

—Lord Lytton.

ALBERTA IS WELL

REPRESENTED AT CHICAGO SHOW

Largest Individual Exhibit from Canada Comes from Daysland Farmer

Great interest is being taken this week in the International Livestock Exposition held at Chicago. Premier Greenfield of Alberta is a guest at the show and will probably meet President Coolidge, who is also visiting the Exposition. Premier Greenfield's visit will also spur the numerous Alberta entries on to do even better than their best. Though his attention will be centred on the hay and grain division, in which his entries are most numerous, he will also watch the flock of the Albertans in the cattle, sheep and horse divisions.

Daysland Exhibit
The largest individual exhibit in the cattle division from Canada from an Alberta rancher is from O. A. Boggs and Son, of Daysland. Mr. Boggs, who last year took one second, one fourth and four other places in the various classes of Herefords, has entered 12 Herefords this year. His exhibit stands a strong chance of taking some blue ribbons, especially in the aged herd class.

Frank Collett, of Crossfield, Alta., who also took some prizes last year, has nominated nine Herefords.

Both the University of Alberta and the experimental farm at Lacombe are entered in the cattle division. The latter is sending seven Aberdeen-Angus bull of the entire 1923 season was owned by James McGregor, of Brandon, Man.

Among the other western entrants in the cattle division are H. Morrison, Lacombe, H. A. Wright, farms, Drinkwater, Sask., and the entries from the Prince of Wales Hotel, Grange Farm, Dalbeattie, Scotland, goes the honor of picking the grand champion in the cattle division. Mr. Biggar arrives here today.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

From The News, Dec. 1, 1909

The Conservatives, headed by Premier McBride, won a sweeping victory in British Columbia, carrying 34 out of 45 seats. Three Socialists were elected.

Pike broke out in the Imperial Bank but smart work by the Brigade prevented serious damage.

The Alberta Natural History Society held their fourth annual meeting at the Arlington Hotel. Dr. George was re-elected President.

James Bower, President of the U. F. A., delivered a comprehensive address to the Victoria Board of Trade on the subject of trade relations between Alberta and British Columbia. After his address a special committee was appointed to deal with the matter.

The secretary of the Western Fire Underwriters' Association advised that owing to the installation of the duplicate pumping system, the rate would be reduced 3 cents.

H. H. Hunter had purchased the Mason residence.

My Dear Sir:

I believe when I left Red Deer I promised to drop you a line occasionally when I saw something that was interesting. Well, here is one thing among many that I thought very interesting.

A short time ago my son and I visited the office of The St. Louis Post Dispatch, and there I saw something that I thought was quite wonderful. After looking over their ordinary presses, which were more than ordinary presses, the guide took us down to the basement, and there we saw the wonderful. There were six large presses (only one was running), where they could place a large roll of white paper on the roller at one end of the machine, the roll weighing from 12 to 13 hundred pounds, and start the machinery going, and that was coming through that press as fast as we would go through the air when our cars are running 30 miles an hour, and coming out of the other end of the machine all printed on both sides, folded and counted at the rate of four hundred papers a minute. How is that for printing? Why that beats the "World"—I mean the "World" at Sylvan Lake. Yes, sir, 400 papers printed on both sides, cut, folded and counted and sent out on a table, and every 50th paper was given an extra shove, so the man that took them there all the time would grab them off in bunches of fifty each and lay them in a pile on the table, and another man grabbed them up and took them to the distributing room perhaps forty feet away, and it took two men to keep that table clear. I thought that was some printing. Remember, this was a thirty-two page paper.

Then the Guide told us about their Sunday edition. Their Sunday edition is a 16-page paper and that edition takes from 450 to 520 of these rolls of paper weighing from 12 to 13 hundred pounds for each edition, and it keeps going.

At the graveside the very impressive, yet dignified, Masonic burial service was read by the Master Work-Bro. H. J. Percy, in a manner calculated to remain in the memory of all those present for a long time. In addition to the members of the Craft, a very large number of old friends and neighbors assembled to show their respect.

In addition to the members of the local lodge, those present included R. W. Bro. J. E. Carruthers, Deputy Grand Master of Alberta, Lacombe; R. W. Bro. S. J. Byers, P.D.D.G.M.; R. W. Bro. W. W. Stephenson, P.D.D.G.M.; W. Bro. Wm. Springhett, Red Deer; W. Bro. J. L. Brewster, P.D.D.G.M.; W. Bro. W. Bookless and J. C. Sheffield, A. McLean and Bro. D. L. Wadleigh, Bowden, W. Bro. C. H. Gilbert, P.M., William Lodge, Lincoln, England.

The officers were all Past Masters of the Innisfail Lodge and comprised the following brethren: H. R. McDermond, D.M., Morden; L. M. McLean, R. M. Moore, J. R. Moore and G. E. Johnson.

Wilson was pre-deceased by his wife, who died nearly three years ago. He leaves three sons and four daughters.

My Dear Sir:

I believe when I left Red Deer I promised to drop you a line occasionally when I saw something that was interesting. Well, here is one thing among many that I thought very interesting.

A short time ago my son and I visited the office of The St. Louis Post Dispatch, and there I saw something that I thought was quite wonderful. After looking over their ordinary presses, which were more than ordinary presses, the guide took us down to the basement, and there we saw the wonderful. There were six large presses (only one was running), where they could place a large roll of white paper on the roller at one end of the machine, the roll weighing from 12 to 13 hundred pounds, and start the machinery going, and that was coming through that press as fast as we would go through the air when our cars are running 30 miles an hour, and coming out of the other end of the machine all printed on both sides, folded and counted at the rate of four hundred papers a minute. How is that for printing? Why that beats the "World"—I mean the "World" at Sylvan Lake. Yes, sir, 400 papers printed on both sides, cut, folded and counted and sent out on a table, and every 50th paper was given an extra shove, so the man that took them there all the time would grab them off in bunches of fifty each and lay them in a pile on the table, and another man grabbed them up and took them to the distributing room perhaps forty feet away, and it took two men to keep that table clear. I thought that was some printing. Remember, this was a thirty-two page paper.

Then the Guide told us about their Sunday edition. Their Sunday edition is a 16-page paper and that edition takes from 450 to 520 of these rolls of paper weighing from 12 to 13 hundred pounds for each edition, and it keeps going.

At the graveside the very impressive, yet dignified, Masonic burial service was read by the Master Work-Bro. H. J. Percy, in a manner calculated to remain in the memory of all those present for a long time. In addition to the members of the Craft, a very large number of old friends and neighbors assembled to show their respect.

In addition to the members of the local lodge, those present included R. W. Bro. J. E. Carruthers, Deputy Grand Master of Alberta, Lacombe; R. W. Bro. S. J. Byers, P.D.D.G.M.; R. W. Bro. W. W. Stephenson, P.D.D.G.M.; W. Bro. Wm. Springhett, Red Deer; W. Bro. J. L. Brewster, P.D.D.G.M.; W. Bro. W. Bookless and J. C. Sheffield, A. McLean and Bro. D. L. Wadleigh, Bowden, W. Bro. C. H. Gilbert, P.M., William Lodge, Lincoln, England.

Coats

The special fabrics lend richness and grace to the straight wrap-around lines of these coats. The length has also an advantage, as it gives more warmth, especially for driving and the cold days of winter call for garments with warmth as well as style. This combination you will find carried out in the coats here for your approval.

Attractive Coats in Sport style which are finding much favor these days with women who seek practicability and utility in their coats. They have small mannish collar, inverted pleat in the back, patch pockets and belt. Some are leather lined to the waist. Made of warmth giving materials in pleasing mixtures.

Another very popular style is the plain style with loose back, wide sleeves with inner storm cuff, adjustable collar, large novelty button; the little difference in the collar, and buttons give them individuality. Made of heavy materials which assure warmth and service.

Coats in different shades of brown in Polo and Velour. A striking note of contrast is achieved by the Beaverine collar and cuffs. There is an ornamental buckle at the side for fastening, or side ties. These coats are all of good quality material in the latest styles.

Coats of Bolivia, Camel Hair, Duvelyn and other fabrics are also greatly in demand. There is decided satisfaction in selecting from a splendid variety as you will when coming here. The many coat modes for winter are not only generously represented, but each one bespeaks quality of the highest order, and tailoring that is unusually fine.

FUR COATS ARE GREAT FAVORITES

And no more acceptable present could be given than a Muskrat Coat with gathered shawl collar, loose back with deep hand with stripes opposite around the bottom; loose sleeves with inner storm cuff and wide band cuff, and beautiful lining in silk shot effect. The pelts in these coats are carefully selected, the workmanship excellent and the lining and trimmings are those that will give excellent service.

LIBERAL MEETING AT HESPERO

On November 24th a Liberal meeting was held at Hespero, which was addressed by Mr. J. J. Gaetz, ex-M.P., and Mr. J. W. Broughton, President of the Red Deer Liberal Association. Mr. G. Frid was appointed chairman and Mr. G. H. Macdonnell secretary pro tem, with about 35 in attendance.

Mr. Gaetz gave a short and interesting address on Liberalism, its ideals, aims, its influence on Canada in the past and its work in the future in building up the Dominion. It had always stood for real and permanent progress. He commented upon the danger of Communism and quoted the present condition of Russia as a striking example of its disastrous rule on a large scale, and gave the opinion of Emma Goldman, a one-time Anarchist, that the present regime in Russia was infinitely worse than it was under the Czar.

Mr. Broughton dealt exhaustively with the financial policy of the Liberal government from their accession to office in 1906 to their retirement in August, 1921, and contrasted it with that of their successors from that date to the present. When the Liberals took office in 1906 there was practically no organization, no public buildings, roads, bridges, institutions, telephones or railways. When they left office in August of 1921, the bond indebtedness amounted to $27,000,000, for which they had—

Public buildings $12,699,491 Railways 22,745,895
Telephones 15,534,394
Permanent work 5,318,680 Demonstration farms 471,501 Loans to farming industry 2,204,413 Loans, education 230,834 $65,504,113

Mr. Broughton contrasted the surpluses of the late government with the $3,180,993 of deficits the present Government had built up in three years. Of the motor license revenue, earmarked for roads, $471,939 had been illegally directed to other purposes. Not one cent of money had been spent by the Government in the town municipalities, and the upkeep of roads in Red Deer had become a very serious burden on the taxpayers.

The present Government came into power on the cry of economy and a fair deal to the farmer. Mr. Broughton continued. They had utterly failed on both. Instead of economy there had been a wild orgy of extravagance; instead of the money collected for purposes of the farmer, it had been used for other purposes. There had been increased taxation, without resultant benefit. How much longer could this province go on under these conditions? In 1921 the income was $8,486,346; this year it was $11,053,246, and yet they were unable to pay their way by more than half a million dollars. The two old parties, with all their faults (and they had many) always showed better results than they had had from three years' rule of class government. The figures he had put before them were taken entirely from Government records. He had not juggled them in any particular; they were essentially accurate. He left the results with them whether they were satisfied with the taxes they were paying and the service they were getting from this Government, and whether they would have more of such group government or trust once more the destinies of this great province to the two old parties.

A cordial vote of thanks was given to the speakers, and responded to by Mr. Gaetz.

The meeting then proceeded to organize, the following officers being elected:— President—J. W. Lawson
First Vice-Pres.—Geo. Frid
Second Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. Edgar
Secretary—J. B. Walker
Committee—Joe Nelson, R. Snider, G. H. Macdonnell, Mrs. B. Thredgold.

RED DEER

RED DEER MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL

The following splendid reports were presented to the ratifyers at the annual meeting of ratifyers on Thursday evening last. The Hospital Board, Red Deer.

Gentlemen: I submit herewith statement of cash receipts and disbursements for the year 1924 from January 1st to October 31st.

We commenced the year with a cash balance in the Bank, and during the year it has not been necessary to borrow any money from the Bank. On the contrary, we have received interest on our monthly balances. All accounts owing to the Hospital have been paid promptly when due and all are paid up to date. All debentures due this year have been paid in full, and we are assured of having a substantial cash balance on hand at the end of the year. With the exception of the legacy of $200.00 and some donations, all improvements have been paid for out of current revenues. Close attention has been paid to the collection of patients' accounts and careful records of the Hospital work kept. All expenditures have been carefully considered before being made.

For the first six months of this year the cost per patient day in the Red Deer Hospital was the lowest of the 15 municipal hospitals in Alberta with the exception of one small hospital in the north. Respectfully submitted.

A. T. STEPHENSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

To the Citizens of the City of Red Deer:—

The citizens of Red Deer have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the successful operation of the Red Deer Municipal Hospital during the past year. So harmoniously has the work of the institution gone on that there has not been even one echo of a complaint from anyone of the scores of patients admitted during the year. The records of the institution show that 364 patients were admitted during the ten months ending October 31st, 1924, and from that number there were 25 deaths, or about 7%. This is a remarkable record when one considers that of the patients admitted, major operations were performed upon 110. This result rebounds not only to the credit of the medical practitioners of this community for their care and skill, but also to the superintendent and her excellent staff of nurses.

An institution which is not a financial success is a failure, and measured thus in money terms the hospital during the past year has been a success. The secretary's statement discloses that the institution, after meeting all its obligations, including the principal and interest on the debenture indebtedness, has a cash surplus of $620.78. In addition to this there are outstanding accounts earned during the year amounting to $100.00, which will be collected, but which is not taken into account in arriving at the result heretofore set out. The burden of the up-keep after all falls very lightly upon the taxpayers and the hospital supporters of Red Deer. The rate of taxation for hospital purposes is 2½ mills and all residents of Red Deer, whether taxpayers or not, who pay at least $6.00, whether through taxes imposed for the purpose or otherwise, which payment must be made during the month of January in every year, are themselves, as well as their dependents, entitled to a rate in the hospital of $1.00 per day, while non-taxpayers must pay $1.00 per day and additional charges for operating room, drugs and dressings. This is a very small rate of insurance for the benefits to be derived in the event of sickness. It should be noted that, of the expenditures approximately $370,000 goes for payment of debentures, which if they are met, and there is no reason to suppose that the institution will be less successful in the future, then at the expiration of ten years, assuming that no further buildings are required, the institution will be entirely free from debt. During the past year only 53 patients who were supporters of the hospital were admitted, or in other words the hospital supporters form only 15% of the patients admitted during the year.

The records show that there has been an increase of 75 patients admitted during the first ten months of the present year over the corresponding period of 1923. It should be noted that, of the high regard in which the institution is held in Central Alberta because it is to be noted that the institution draws its patients from a wide area. This latter fact, of course, is to a large extent due to the very excellent surgeons practicing their profession in this community.

There have been additions to the building and the equipment and appliances of the institution have been added to during the year. The legacy of $200.00 left by the late Mr. Thomas Stacey of Newburgh, New York, in memory of the late Jennie McLeod, has been expended by the Board upon the suggestion and according to the wishes of Mrs. E. C. McLeod, in the purchase of the most modern of operating tables and in the erection of a sun room or rooms suitably situated on the south end of the hospital building. No more lasting nor more useful memorial could be conceived of than the sun parlor, these rooms will be very much appreciated by the convalescing patients as well as the nurses.

It would be impossible to write a report on the hospital for any year and overlook the splendid work done by the several organizations of ladies in the community who during every year, contribute so much to the success of the institution. It would be impossible, partly because it would be unfair to those ladies, but mostly because they are part of the institution and their efforts are of the essence of its success. It would be almost as easy in accounting for daylight to ignore the existence of the sun. To use the words of Mrs. Pintzky, the superintendent, "The ladies are just perfect." The ladies' Hospital Aid has done magnificent work during the year, and a great deal of credit is also due the I.O.B.E. for decorating and equipping the diet kitchen, as well as the Balmoral Ladies' Aid for the painting and furnishing of a ward. The efforts of all those who have equipped wards are greatly appreciated. In particular mention might be made of the Ladies' Club, the ladies of the Goodwill and Gracious and Mrs. H. L. Gaetz. In addition to those mentioned above there are dozens of individuals who take a deep and kindly interest in different ways that greatly adds to the comfort and ease of the patients and no doubt acts as an inspiration to the Superintendent and staff in the discharge of their duties.

The actual work of the institution is carried on by the Superintendent, Mrs. Pintzky, and by Mr. A. T. Stephenson, the Secretary-Treasurer, and to these excellent officers too much credit cannot be given for the success of the institution. It is to the untiring efforts of these officers, together with the helpful work of the efficient staff, that most of the credit must go after all for the successful guiding of the work of the institution for the past year. Great credit is also due to every member of the medical profession who practices at the hospital for his assistance and help. The recent innovation of holding monthly meetings of the staff with the doctors with unquestionably added to the efficiency of the members of the staff and thereby to that of the institution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
Dated at Red Deer this 21st day of November, A. D. 1924.
J. R. MCCLURE,
Chairman of the Red Deer Municipal Hospital Board.

BROOKSLEY BEAMS

The last meeting of the November 25th Community Club was held at the school house on November 22nd. Mrs.
G. Reid and Mrs. A. Griffith acted as hostesses.

Miss Johnson has decided to have her Christmas tree and entertainment on December 19th.

Frank Kirkpatrick is coming from south of Calgary where he has been helping with the threshing.

Miss Winnie Matheson is leaving for Calgary Wednesday next on an extended visit to friends there.

On Saturday eve, the Marshall stage, which was regularly scheduled to leave the club members to their respective homes from the meeting, slipped off the grade into the ditch, owing to the icy roads, leaving the said members in a snow drift with the sleigh box for a roof.
The team calmly walked off with the sleigh runners. Frank found the remainder late that evening tangled up in the bush near the government bridge north of George Road. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Miss Mamie Elliott left for Calgary on Saturday last, where she will work in a jewellery shop over the Christmas season.

C. Jacobson pulled his threshing machine home for the winter on Saturday.

A number of our young people attended the card party and dance in Blades' hall on Saturday eve and reported a very enjoyable evening.

It has been decided to hold the handkerchief and apron social on the evening of December 19th, at the schoolhouse. Everyone welcome.

T. Blackburn is holding his sale of stock and household goods on December 4th, after which he intends moving his family into Red Deer for the winter.

The Glee Club held a meeting at the school house on Thursday eve.

LESLIEVILLE U.F.W.A.

The November meeting of the Leslieville U.F.W.A. was held on Monday evening, November 17, at the home of Mrs. M. Case, this departure from the usual rule of holding meetings in a hall in the afternoon being occasioned by a visit from Mrs. R. Price, U.F.W.A. director from Red Deer. Mrs. Price motored up from Ekiville where she had held an afternoon meeting, and was accompanied by Mr. Lundberg of Ekiville. U.F.W.A. who remained for the evening.

After a few preliminary remarks of introduction by the secretary, Mrs.
Mrs. C. A. Card, Mrs. Price gave a very interesting talk, during which she discussed a number of subjects of interest to her hearers. Among them were Public Health, Legislation affecting women and children, immigration, etc.
She related a few incidents connected with her recent trip to England, in which she compared modes of living in that country and this. At the close of her address she invited comments and questions, and some interesting discussion followed.

The evening was brought to a close by the passing around of an abundance of eatables, after which the visitors returned to Ekiville. Everybody presented thoroughly enjoyed the meeting, which, it is hoped, may be repeated in the future.

The next regular meeting of the U.F.W.A. will be held on December 17 (Wednesday) at 2:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Fred McNeil, 2 1/2 miles east of Leslieville. All who are interested are invited to attend.

NEWSPAPERS ARE BEST MEDIUMS FOR ADVERTISING

Experts at Canadian Exhibition Association Meeting Express This Opinion

Numerous problems which have a relation to the welfare of Fairs held in the Dominion were under discussion at the first annual meeting of the members of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions held in Toronto last week, with D. T. Edgerly, of Regina, presiding. Representatives of exhibition boards in the chief cities of every province in Canada were in attendance, with the exception of Nova Scotia.
The cities represented included Vancouver, New Westminster, Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon, Brandon and Winnipeg. Representatives were also present from several of the senior United States Fair associations.
Thomas Clarkson, Hastings, New Zealand, who is in Toronto homebound from the Wenlock fair, was also present and spoke.

The report of S. W. Johns, of Saskatoon, secretary-treasurer, showed a very substantial surplus.

In a discussion on "advertising exhibitions," the speakers included John G. Kent, general manager of the Canadian National exhibition, Toronto; John C. Simpson, of Chicago, and J. B. Hay, publicity director of the Canadian National exhibition.

Mr. Hay said that of all mediums of advertising, the newspapers, so far as the C.N.E. was concerned, had proven to be the best. This opinion was also shared by Mr. Simpson.

Thomas Clarkson of New Zealand said Premier King, in speaking to him a few days ago, had predicted that Vancouver would be one of the greatest ports in the world, if not the world's port. Mr. Clarkson declared that there was a wonderful market for Canadian fruit in New Zealand.
Although the people of New Zealand would prefer to buy Canadian apples, they had only United States apples offered to them.

THEY OPENED HIS EYES

"And what would you be doing with a wife at your age, Donald?" inquired McTavish.
"Just to bide my time, and when I'd close my eyes," replied Donald.
"Aweel," said McTavish, "I've had two, and they opened mine!"

Cavalry Recruit (about to take his first lesson in horsemanship): "Sergeant, pick me out a nice, gentle

Sergeant: "Have you ever ridden a horse before?"
Recruit: "No."
Sergeant: "Ah, here's just the animal for you. Never been ridden before. You can start out together."

SHE NOTICED

Arthur hated having his photograph taken, but one day a thought struck him and he agreed to the long-dreaded ordeal.

The proofs came back. When his wife saw them, she exclaimed:

"Oh, Arthur, you have only got one button on your coat!"

"Thank heaven," he replied, "you've noticed it at last. That's why I had the photo taken."

ANXIOUS

A Hebrew and an Irishman were fishing in separate boats some distance apart. The Irishman got a bite, and was so nervous that he fell out of his boat. He sank twice, and as he came up the second time the Hebrew roared over and called out, "Mister, can I have your boat if you don't come up again?"

WHAT WORRIED HIM

An old settler was watching a crowd of youngsters playing porcupine near the edge of the pier. Suddenly he proceeded to throw one of them.

A passer-by stopped and questioned the old man.

"What?" said the man, as he ceased his hold on the boy's collar. "I ain't if I care a hang whether they fall in or whether they don't, but it's the darned uncertainty."

MOTIVES

A little thinking shows us that the deeds of kindness we do are effective in proportion to the love we put into them. More depends upon the motive than upon the gift. If the thought be selfish, if we expect compensation, or are gully of close calculation, the result will be like the attitude of mind which invited it—Dresser.

CORRECT CHARGE

"The constable seems wonderfully certain about the details of my case," said a defendant with a sullen "but how is it he does not call his fellow-officer to corroborate what he says?"

"There is only one constable in the village, sir," explained the policeman. "But I saw two last night!" indignantly asserted the defendant. "Exactly," the policeman rejoined, smiling broadly, "that's just the charge against you."

DONE

In the coffee-room of the hotel there were two men and one fire. In front of the fire one of the men stood firmly planted, his legs apart, his scissors, his hands behind his back.

For half an hour the other man watched the fire twinkling between the spread legs. At last, exasperated, he ran for the waiter.

"Waiter," he said, "kindly turn that gentleman. I think he's done on that side."

Here and There

"Moose are plentiful in the Chaplains, Ont., district, and hunters can secure a good 'bag' of moose and bear," says J. W. McVey. Experienced guides can be obtained and hunters are assured they will get their limit.

"One of the things for which Canada is most to be congratulated is that she has established a system of education that compares favorably with any in the world. Canada is a nation of literates, she has a remarkably small proportion of illiterates," stated the Right Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, former Minister of Education in the British government, when disembarking at Montreal.

One of the many gifts offered by enthusiastic individuals to the Prince of Wales on his visit, the majority of which he could not for obvious reasons accept, was a package of French-Canadian tobacco grown on a farm at St. Roch l'Achigan, situated near the boundaries of Manitoba and Assiniboia counties. In a letter from the Alberta ranch the Prince thanked his secretary thanked the donor for the gift.

A cablegram from London, England, quotes an article in the "Financial News" dealing with the British Empire Exhibition. It stresses the exceptionally fine exhibit staged by Canada and the unquestionable benefit to trade relations it has effected. The article pays a high tribute to the Canadian Pacific Railway exhibit, describing the railway's gorgeously illuminated map of Canada, with its 5,000 incandescent lights as probably the most brilliant specimen of cartography ever seen at the exhibition or elsewhere.

It has been announced that H. J. Logan, M.P. for Cumberland, will accompany the Minister of Trade and Commerce to the West Indies to negotiate a new reciprocal treaty with those islands. The general purpose of the visit is to admit West Indian commodities free in return for Canadian manufactures receiving similar treatment, the products of the two countries being, entirely dissimilar. It is also hoped to build up a direct system of importations through Canadian ports instead of through the United States, by which route a great proportion of West Indian product now come to Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has appointed P. A. Cox, general agent, to be assistant Oriental manager, at Shanghai. And E. F. L. Sturdee, acting general passenger agent for the Orient, to be general passenger agent for the Orient, with headquarters at Hong Kong. Len Salloway, recently appointed assistant freight agent, with offices at Montreal, and supervision over Oriental and Australasian traffic via Pacific ports, has the distinction of being the youngest official in the Canadian Pacific Service. He was born in Vancouver, in 1895, and has been in the steamship freight service 14 years.

The winners of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ontario bungalow camps fishing trophy competitions for 1924 were announced recently. The French River competition resulted in two competitors turning in fish almost identically alike. In this contest a tie was declared. The successful anglers were D. W. L. Hawking, New York City, and H. H. Champ, Hamilton, Ontario, each entering a small mouth bass weighing exactly 4 pounds. The winning fish at Nipigon River Camp was a 6 pound, 10 ounce trout, caught by William Metzger, Detroit, Michigan. The Devil's Gap (Lake of the Woods) trophy was won by J. A. Furlong, Winnipeg, Manitoba, who entered a muscungee weighing 20 pounds, 8 ounces.

THE PLACE TO BUY Linoleum & Congoleum

Do you know that either of the above can be bought more cheaply in Red Deer than any other place in Western Canada? Some people seem to think that they are saving money by sending away for these articles. We can prove that they are paying more in actual cash than if they bought them in Red Deer.

THE SAME IS ALSO TRUE WITH REGARD TO BEDDING. You can buy a standardized and guaranteed Bed, Spring or Mattress for less money than the same thing, plus freight, would cost you anywhere else in Western Canada.

We don't want you to think that this is merely selling talk—we are willing to prove what we say; and are quoting a few prices to substantiate our contention.
